Women’s Health Concern is the patient arm of the British Menopause Society
About BMS and WHC

For healthcare professionals

The British Menopause Society (BMS), established in 1989, educates, informs and guides healthcare professionals in all aspects of post reproductive health. This is achieved through an annual programme of lectures, conferences, meetings, exhibitions and our interactive website. We offer a range of publications including our quarterly journal Post Reproductive Health and the definitive handbook Management of the Menopause.

For patients

Women’s Health Concern (WHC), the patient arm of the BMS, provides an independent service to advise, reassure and educate women of all ages about their gynaecological and sexual health, wellbeing and lifestyle concerns. WHC offers unbiased information – by telephone, email, printed fact sheets, online and through symposia, seminars, meetings and workshops, including Living and loving well beyond 40…!

Our Mission

• To increase awareness of post reproductive healthcare issues

• To promote optimal management through our educational programme, publications and information dissemination

The challenge of post reproductive health is increasing. As most British women can expect to live for thirty years or more beyond menopause, the consequences for immediate and longer term healthcare and lifestyle are significant.

Affiliations

The British Menopause Society is a specialist society affiliated to the Royal College of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists and the Faculty of Sexual and Reproductive Healthcare. Working together we have developed theoretical and practical training modules aimed at those healthcare professionals who regularly work in the field of women’s health.

British Menopause Society membership is open to healthcare professionals and others specialising in post reproductive health.
